Covid-19 Spreading Rapidly in the Detroit Area

Time Line

Over the past month and a half Detroit and surrounding cities have experienced high infection rates of Covid-19. Detroit has now become one of the primary infection points of the virus

Effect on Local Businesses

Many businesses have been put in a difficult position recently. No essential businesses are being asked to shut down because of the epidemic. As stated by one local business owner, George Norman, "I am not able to pay my workers and am close to going out of business." He, like many other owners are struggling to survive.

Supporting Local Businesses

Though it may appear a hopeless situation there are still ways to support your community. Many restaurants are offering delivery and pickup services. And remember after receiving the food to wash your hands. This can help prevent the risk of being infected. Finally, and most importantly stay home to protect those who can not.
